Dear Ray:

Your letter of May 19 regarding the expedition to the Marshall Islands arrived in the afternoon mail.

I am definitely interested; the salary arrangements mentioned in your letter are quite satisfactory.

As I understand, the objective is to make as complete a collection as possible from each island visited, especially being alert for variants induced by radiation. The key to the land plants to be expected there would be a great help in field identification of plants collected.

I appreciate very much your confidence in me and I assure you that I will do all in my power to live up to your expectations.

Please keep me posted as to developments. I welcome suggestions for preparations necessary for the work and more details as to data to be gathered.

Thanking you for recommending me for this work and with best regards and aloha,
