Following are several instances and examples of _____ enthusiasm with his position as Global's ERDA/DNA Coordinator at Kwajalein that have either caused PASO some problem and embarrassment or surprise.

1. _____ has apparently negotiated on an informal basis with Dick Foote at KMR for the ability of Dr. Knudsen to have referral capability of exposed Marshallese patients at Ebeye to the Kwajalein hospital. This arrangement should have been established through a request from Dr. Conard to Mr. Stanley with an amendment to the existing ISSA between ERDA/PASO and BMDSCOM. At the present time H&N has received a billing from Global for $10.00 concerning the first referral made by Dr. Knudsen to the Kwajalein hospital.

2. _____ at the direction of Jim and Kris, was asked to see if an informal arrangement could be established to provide janitorial service of the bunk trailer by a crew member in lieu of subsistence costs. Ted established this procedure. Due to some of the flak caused by _____ after he was fired by Global as Captain of Liktanur, the corporate office in Oakland of Global Associates has taken issue with this. They request that crew costs for subsistence be deducted from the pay checks of the crew and credited to the LCU billing and also that if other than normal janitorial service is to be performed during a mission that an additional crew member be hired to accomplish this work.

5. has somehow managed to let it be known within the Army organization at Kwajalein that he is a spokesman for ERDA. Whenever there is a problem of coordination and we catch the Army unaware, they call Ted and take up the point with him. then will call PASO with the information concerning how ERDA has "crossed" the Army when in fact the Army should call PASO direct with their problem.

also has gleaned enough information from the various user organizations transmitting Kwajalein to feel that he is an authority on our projects and our position politically in the Marshalls. On a recent trip to Majuro he discussed several of our projects with the Peace Corps Volunteers and the PC Director. PASO staff members have had to correct misinformation and explain to the DistAd and the DistAd's Rep (among others) that works for us through Global and that he is not an ERDA employee.

6. PASO and have gotten into the habit of doing work via phone and not always confirming either by TWX or letter. This has caused a few problems of a minor nature such as requesting engineering drawings on the rehab of trailers at KMR to be used on the LCU and finding that the work is scheduled. Scheduling the work to be accomplished and asking for recommended concept plans of rehab work are two different things. A major problem occurred when the work on the whole body counting trailer was 80% completed without written authorization from PASO to schedule the work or written acceptance of Global's proposal for rehabbing the trailer. In this particular instance, PASO should have written to Mr. McAfee concerning our request and not informally requested it through Ted.

7. has, in the last 6 months, not kept PASO staff members as informed of problems as he did when he first began working for us. Two examples of not informing PASO are: Prior to the FY 76 BNL March Survey, three feature films (borrowed from the recreation people at Kwajalein) to be shown at Utirik and Rongelap were stolen off the ship and therefore BNL cannot borrow films from Kwajalein any more. This came up last week when BNL again submitted an identical request for the FY 77 trip. The other example is the compressor motor aboard Liktanur (which steers the LCU) needs to be replaced. Apparently, has been in correspondence with H&N since September on procuring a replacement motor. PASO just learned of this requirement three weeks ago when H&N brought it to our attention. It is our interpretation that original pieces of gear on the LCU will be replaced by the Army sources and that if it is not available, PASO could then procure the item with later reimbursement from the Army.

8. has done a very good job for us but he consistently gets ahead of us and informs us of pieces of problems that arise at Kwajalein. He is very enthusiastic about his job with us to the point of using it as a power lead. In this way, he has alienated his immediate supervisor while becoming very close with the command people in the Army. This creates conflicts within Global when will go over his own company and discuss ERDA-related problems directly with the Army. In his main function at Kwajalein, which is monitoring the billings against the LCU program, he has been very valuable in spotting incorrect charges or complete mis-billings. However, even in this area he is slacking off. On the December billings Jim had several questions which had missed or did not realize were in the billings. He has had to do a great deal of homework in providing us with explanations when in the past he had always been more aware. Was on vacation in December - some documents missing from procurement.

9. In another area, has become an entrepreneur at Kwajalein and, it is imagined, makes off-the-record deals. One such example is talking with the PC Volunteer on Wotho and establishing that there is a requirement for supplies. He suggested directing the LCU enroute to Enewetak to drop off supplies. The request came to PASO from the DistAd Rep/KMR and we complied. The point is, we do not need additional business drummed up for Liktanur. The PCV should discuss a problem like this with Oscar DeBrum or the Director, Peace Corps. The impression is that the deal was all set up then put to PASO in such a way that refusal was not wise. The Liktanur cannot become a field trip vessel as this would be interfering in TT business and is out of our mandate area.

Request came from PCV at Wotho and passed to Murph Ownbey. He asked PASO for help. Only reason got involved is because he was the only person on Kwaj that the PCV knew.
